Dr. Vyhyahn Maloof; MD Medical and Public Services Department Phlebotomy Program Director Griffin Technical College Griffin; Georgia "This [text] takes an innovative approach to training phlebotomists. It's written with the concept of grooming the novice student for excellence in phlebotomy; training the student with didactic knowledge and skill; providing tools and resources to be competitive when applying for employment; and reinforcing proper work ethics to maintain their employment. This all encompassing approach gives students the tools necessary to become exemplary phlebotomists within healthcare." About the Author Bonnie K. Davis; MA; MPA has taught the Phlebotomy Certificate Program as Medical Office Technology Faculty at Pikes Peak Community College since 1997. She is retired from Penrose-St. Francis Health Services; where she was Laboratory Support Manager for 26 years.
