Alan Buchman MD MSPH : Practical Nutritional Support Techniques before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Practical Nutritional Support Techniques:

Practical Nutritional Support Techniques, Second Edition is the perfect reference for the management of patients that require nutritional support. Organized in a "how-to" approach, everyone connected with the field of GI will appreciate the ease and applicability it will bring to their professions. Nutritional assessment techniques for both adults and pediatrics are covered inside this exciting resource. Topics include nutritional assessment, parenteral nutrition, enteral nutrition, pregnancy, disease specific nutrition, pediatrics, and home nutritional therapy. Inside these easy-to-read chapters you will find how to determine "why, how much, what type, and how to monitor" these therapies. Practical tables, figures, algorithms, and a bibliography make Practical Nutritional Support Techniques a thorough resource and welcome addition into today's medical field. The perfect resource for: Gastroenterologists General Surgeons Internists Dieticians GI Residents Pharmacists Nutritionists

"The strongest aspect is the frequent use of tables and the extensive appendix, which provide information in an easily accessible manner for quick reference." Denise Baird Schwartz, MS, RD, FADA, CNSD, Nutrition in Clinical Practice "Practical Nutritional Support Techniques is a very well written and easily understood manual of providing nutrition support. It provides a very readable reference for understanding nutritional therapy, an area of learning that is often lacking at many training programs. I highly recommend this book to gastroenterologists." Mark DeLEgge, MD, Practical Gastroenterology
About the Author
Alan L. Buchman, MD, MSPH
Alan L. Buchman, MD, MSPH, became interested in nutrition support as a resident at Cedars Sinai Medical Center. He went on to complete a fellowship in nutrition under Dr. Marvin Ament at UCLA where he also earned his Master of Science degree in Public Health.
